COUNTY INSPECTIONS

No-Contact Inspections

THURSTON COUNTY

No-contact inspections continue for 2023 in response to on-going Washington state COVID guidance.

NO-CONTACT INSPECTIONS

- County staff are continuing to conduct no-contact, on-site inspections for permits this year.
- Inspectors will not meet with property owners or applicants on site.
- During inspections, staff aren't interacting indoors or within close proximity to property owners, permit applicants or others for the health of all involved.
- Property owners/applicants may email questions about the process or inspection findings to County staff. Phone calls are okay, too, but staff are often in the field.

HOW NO-CONTACT INSPECTIONS WORK

BEFORE WE ARRIVE

- Staff use the contact info on your permit application to inform you of your inspection date. PLEASE CHECK YOUR MESSAGES.

WHEN WE ARRIVE

- County staff won't knock on doors.
- County staff won't come to the door for conversation.
- County staff won't leave business cards at doors.

DURING INSPECTIONS

- Try to avoid the area, but if you do join in, maintain at least 10 feet separation at all times.
- No more than five people in any inspection group.

NO-CONTACT COMMUNICATIONS

- Please email your questions or comments to the staff contact person listed on this sheet, or on the BDC website for your inspection type.
- You can call staff if a phone number is provided, but essential staff are often in the field with limited time to return calls. Emailing is often a better method.
