Urban Conservancy
For areas that are or will be developed in urban settings. Allows for low-intensity water uses that won’t cause big, negative impacts to shoreline functions. Allows a variety of compatible uses while protecting and restoring ecological functions of open space, floodplain and other sensitive lands in urban and developed settings.

Rural Conservancy
For areas like farms, forests, or properties next to steep banks, bluffs, flood-prone areas that can support low-intensity water-dependent use without large, negative impacts to the shoreline functions or processes. Provides for resource use, public access and recreational opportunities while protecting ecological functions; conserving existing ecological, historical and cultural resources.

Natural
For undeveloped areas currently performing important, irreplaceable ecosystem-wide functions that would be damaged by human activity. Protects shorelines performing ecological functions that are intolerant of human use and that are also already intact, relatively free of human influence, or minimally degraded. Very low intensity uses are allowed.

Aquatic
