Comment: The current and proposed shoreline rules are moot because they are overridden by the critical area ordinances which are more restrictive. It is pointless to say modify the 100' marine conservancy setback to 110' feet since the critical area setback is 250'. It is disingenuous to even publish the current standard or the proposed because they can never come into play. It is completely dishonest to the citizens of this county to pretend you are making rules that never come into play. If you are going to have a shoreline setback, make sure it is the setback and repeal the critical area ordinance that makes shoreline master plan rules moot.
