I. INTRODUCTION

A. Purpose

1. This Plan is an all-hazard operational plan for evacuations, to be coordinated with any Incident Commander (IC) when needed and coordinated with the Emergency Coordination Center (ECC) when activated. Evacuations may result from natural or human caused incidents. Protection of people by sheltering in place as well as the traditional movement of people should be considered.

B. Scope

1. This is an all-hazard evacuation plan, to be used in determining if, and to what extent, the movement and activities of the public should be controlled during a disaster, including shelter in place. This plan is for unincorporated Thurston County. However, mass evacuations will require multi-jurisdictional coordination. Whether directing traffic around the site of an accident or evacuating a geographic area, the principles remain the same: assess risk factors, plan an appropriate response, inform the public, and then implement the plan.

II. POLICIES

- A. In most situations, unless otherwise qualified, the local jurisdictions will maintain primary authority and responsibility for response activities. However, during evacuations within unincorporated Thurston County the Thurston County Sheriff's office will be the lead agency for all evacuation efforts.
- B. During an incident response the responding agencies will utilize the Incident Command System (ICS) and National Incident Management System (NIMS) principles and protocols on scene with incident operations. Consideration will be given to unified command and multi-jurisdictional incidents.
- C. Under the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA Amendments Act of 2008 (P.L. 110-325)), transportation providers must permit passengers with disabilities to be accompanied by their service animals.
- D. For adequate planning and decision making to occur, before the need, it is important that the Sheriff's Department have advance notice and be included in the earliest possible discussion regarding evacuation needs.

- E. No provision in the law allows a sheriff to forcibly remove a person due to the existence of a threat or hazard.
- F. The Sheriff, however, does possess the authority to forcibly remove a minor if the Sheriff determines the minor is in danger.
- G. A person does not relinquish their rights as a property owner. However, if a person is not on their property or leaves, the Sheriff may restrict or prohibit re-entry to private property when deemed as unsafe. Except as exempted by statute (refer to RCW 36.28A.140 & RCW 47.48.060)
- H. During an incident that requires evacuation, civilians may wish to assist in the evacuation efforts. As the lead agency, Thurston County Sheriff's Office will make final determination on who will participate in the evacuation efforts.

III. SITUATION

A. Hazard Environment

- 1. Thurston County is subject to a wide variety of natural and human-induced threats. Hazards that could result in evacuation include, but are not limited to:
 - Dam Failure
 - Flood
 - Hazardous Material Incident
 - Landslide
 - Terrorist Attack
 - Tsunami
 - Volcanic Incident
 - Wildland Fire

B. Planning Assumptions

- 1. A disaster and/or emergency can occur with little to no warning.
- 2. The level of evacuation can begin at any of the three evacuation levels. Evacuation levels will be changed as required and designated by the Incident Commander.
- 3. ICS will be used to manage evacuation activities and phases at all levels.
- 4. Some residents will not evacuate regardless of the hazards.
- 5. The incident may cause significant disruption to the area's critical transportation infrastructure, hampering evacuations.
- 6. Residents of the evacuated area will need to return to the area post-incident if possible. Plans and methods are necessary to facilitate return of evacuated residents.
- 7. Warning systems may not reach all populations to be warned.
- 8. First responder teams may not be available to conduct door to door evacuation notifications.
- 9. Evacuation can be a multi-jurisdiction activity.
- 10. Planning for evacuations must include Limited English Proficiency (LEP) populations, access and functional needs populations, pets, service animals, and livestock.

IV. CONCEPT OF OPERATIONS

A. General

- 1. Civilian assistance will be considered at the discretion of the incident commander (IC).
 - (a) Any civilians that have been granted access and the proper authority to assist in official response efforts should be properly equipped and trained in the duties they will perform.

- (b) Members of the access and functional needs population may require additional support or assistance in certain functional areas.
- (c) Access and functional needs populations shall be notified as soon as possible of a potential and/ or necessary evacuation to give necessary time to evacuate and prepare for and request assistance during an evacuation.

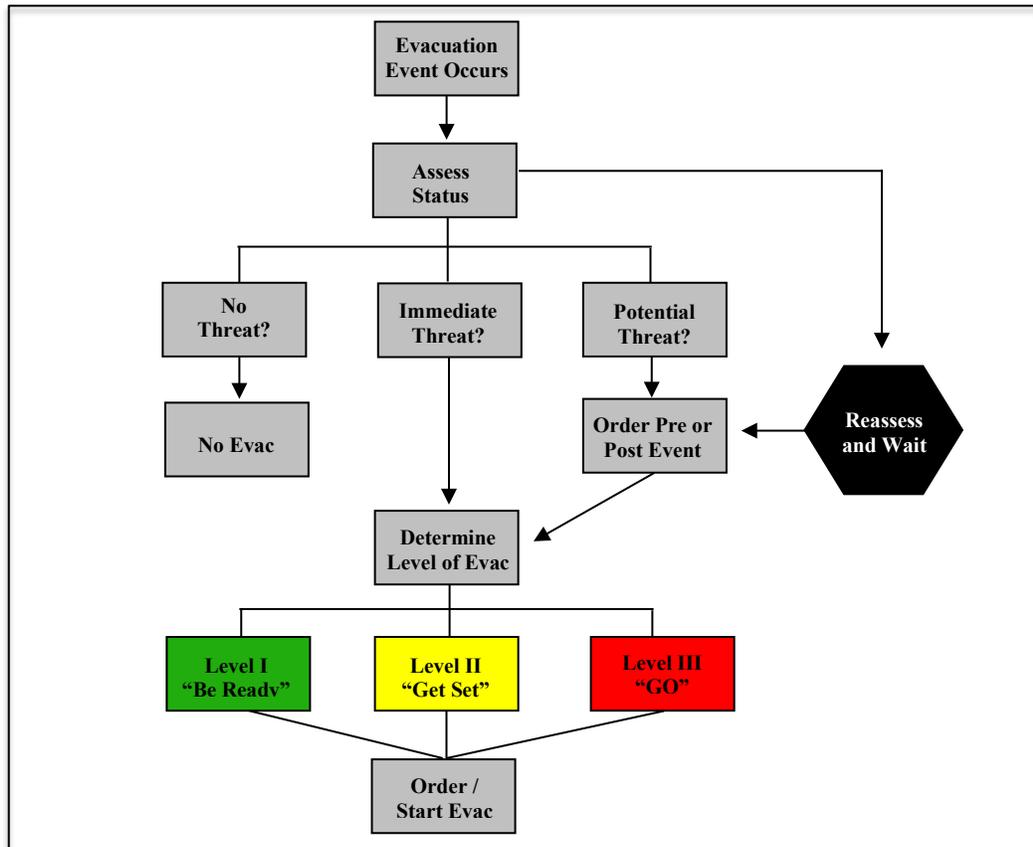

B. Evacuation Organization

- 1. Law Enforcement will lead evacuation efforts and restrict access to dangerous areas.
- 2. Law Enforcement will coordinate with Incident Command and supporting agencies.
- 3. Incident Commander will coordinate with law enforcement to recommend changes in evacuation levels based on current and/or predicted threats and hazard behaviors.
- 4. Supporting agencies will work in coordination with Incident Command and Law Enforcement.
- 5. Public Works will assess roads and assist Law Enforcement with traffic control points.
- 6. Emergency Management (EM) and/or ECC, when activated, will issue notifications and warnings through ESF 2 and ESF 15.
- 7. EM/ECC will coordinate with ESF 2, 6, 11, and 15 as necessary to support evacuations.

C. Procedures

- 1. If the hazard is deemed to threaten the identified tactical area(s), the IC will request activation of the appropriate evacuation level based on current and predicted hazard behavior.
- 2. The IC will inform the Thurston County Sheriff's Office of the current and predicted situation, identify the affected area, and notify the county ECC.
- 3. Emergency Management, or the Thurston County ECC when activated, will issue notifications and warnings to the public in coordination with ESF 2: Communications, Information Systems & Warning and ESF 15: External Affairs/PIO. Emergency Management will also begin planning for shelter and support to potential evacuees in coordination with ESF 6: Mass Care, Emergency Assistance, Housing & Human Services.

4. The following flow chart demonstrates the decision making tool that will be used during an evacuation.

D. Types of Evacuations

1. Incidents that cause evacuations differ in size and scope, with varying degrees of warning. There are instances, such as flood events, where there will be a level of certainty for the need to evacuate a subset of the population in advance of the incident occurring. Other times, an incident such as an earthquake, may strike with no warning at all. In other situations, such as a hazardous materials spill, sheltering in place may be the safest and most efficient course of action. This plan adopts an all-hazards approach to preparing for an evacuation. The response and recovery activities are functional regardless of the incident that causes the evacuation. This plan is designed to achieve the core mission of preserving life safety, rather than focusing on responding to a specific type of incident. Incident specific evacuation support plans may be developed for specific incident types.
 - (a) Advance Notice
 - (i) With an advance notice evacuation, information about a potential incident may become available 24 hours- 72 hours in advance. This information gives personnel time to establish evacuation strategies and communicate information to the public based on the impacts of a disaster.
 - (b) No-Notice
 - (i) With no-notice evacuations there can be little to no warning, with only partial to no information available about the incident, requiring decision makers to make decisions at the same time as the information is being provided to them. Requiring them to act on limited information on whether an evacuation order

- is needed.
- (ii) No-notice evacuations citizens are usually already at risk. Decision makers will need to be prepared to make decisions based on the available information at the time.
 - (iii) One of the best ways to counter the impacts of a no-notice evacuation is to conduct pre-incident planning. The overarching structures and processes in this plan are meant to mitigate the effects of an extremely limited Incident Analysis, Warning, and Preparation to Move phases that accompany no-notice evacuations.
- (c) Localized
- (i) Localized incidents are typically man-made and can be accidental or intentional.
 - (ii) Evacuations from a localized incident are generally smaller in scope, but may affect large amounts of people in highly populated areas. At-risk populations are usually smaller and evacuees typically only need to be moved a short distance to safeguarded against the hazard.
 - (iii) Localized incidents evacuations typically will involve on-scene activity by emergency response personnel. First Responders will often need to gain access to the site from which citizens are being evacuated.
- (d) Wide-Scale
- (i) Larger incidents may affect an entire region and multiple jurisdictions. Examples of wide-scale incidents that would likely require a sizeable evacuation include:
 - Earthquakes
 - Tsunamis
 - Chemical releases that result in a large moving toxic cloud (plume)
 - Explosions at specialized sites such as liquid natural gas facilities
 - Terrorist attacks using unconventional explosives (e.g. radiological dispersal devices)
 - (ii) Resulting evacuations could involve a large number of evacuees from multiple jurisdictions. Large incidents causing a large-scale evacuation typically cause damage to critical infrastructure that could hinder evacuation movement. Alternate routes must be considered for evacuation if primary routes are unavailable. In cases where the transportation network is severely damaged, sheltering in place may be a safer short-term alternative for at-risk populations until evacuation routes can be restored.
- (e) Phased
- (i) A phased evacuation will take place sequentially in smaller zones of the at-risk region to minimize traffic congestion. Communication with the public will be essential during a phased evacuation.
- (f) Pedestrian-Only
- (i) Pedestrian only evacuations will take place when the threat is dire and there is no time for traffic management or other public transit options.
- (g) Shelter-in-Place
- (i) In certain emergency situations evacuating can be more dangerous to people and put them at greater risk. The nature and scope of the incident may pose a more serious threat if they evacuate. Also, transportation infrastructure may be damaged, preventing evacuation. In such a case it may be more viable for at risk populations to shelter in place with basic protective measures.

E. Evacuation Phases

1. Incident Analysis Phase

- (a) As information becomes available and/or an incident is about to occur, analysis will be used to plan for an evacuation. If it is a no-notice incident, there may be a delay in information flow to decision makers and evacuation orders may need to be issued before all information is available. Evacuation personnel will analyze certain aspects of the situation including (but not limited to):
- Nature of the hazard (magnitude, direction, speed, duration, etc.)
 - Population Characteristics
 - Local geography and facilities at risk
 - Assets available to support an evacuation
- (b) Information gathered during this phase should be used when making a determination of whether an evacuation order should be issued.
- (c) To estimate time needed to evacuate refer to Figure 1.

The following formula can be used to estimate the time needed to evacuate a threatened area:

$$\mathbf{TD + TA + TM + TT = TN}$$

TD= Time from response to decision to evacuate.

TA= Time needed to alert and instruct the public, usually estimated to be from 15-60 minutes, depending upon the time of day, etc.

TM= Time needed to mobilize the population once warned. Under ideal circumstances, 500 vehicles can pass a single point in one hour on urban streets and 850 vehicles can pass a single point in one hour on two lane rural roads. Estimate four persons per vehicle. Adjust accordingly for rain, snow, and poor road conditions.

TT= Time required to leave the hazard area.

TN= Total time required to evacuate.

2. Warning Phase

- (a) This phase notifies all relevant agencies involved in the evacuation and the effected population that an evacuation will be or has been declared. The warning phase coordination will be made with participating agencies and potential supporting agencies. Warning messages should be provided with updated information at regular intervals throughout the duration of the incident in coordination with neighboring jurisdictions.

3. Preparation to Move Phase

- (a) The preparation to move phase focuses on coordination with other agencies and jurisdictions. Evacuation routes will be determined. Coordination with other jurisdictions will be made if evacuees will be routed through or to their jurisdictions. Coordination will be made with participating agencies for support services, assembly points, shelters, and reception areas as required. Coordination of public information will also be made during this phase.

4. Movement and En-Route Support
 - (a) This phase includes operational activities that support the actual movement of the effected population from the unsafe area to the reception and support safe area. Determination will need to be made where personnel, equipment, and resources needed to be located along the route (signage, fuel, traffic control points, etc.).
 5. Reception and Support
 - (a) Reception and support focuses on receiving evacuees at the reception point; triage; life support services including shelter, food, sanitation, public information, education, medical and mental health services, pet and service animal support and care for life stock.
 6. Return Phase
 - (a) The return phase includes planning steps for a controlled, safe return by the evacuees to the previously evacuated area or onward movement to a new location.
- F. Evacuation Levels
1. Level I advisement (Ready): Level I evacuation advisements warn persons that there have been established current or projected threats. This notice recommends that preparations and precautions be made for person with special needs, mobile property, and (under certain circumstances) pets and livestock.
 - (a) Level I evacuations advisements may or may not be accompanied by checkpoints, roadblocks, or road closures.
 2. Level II advisement (Set): Level II evacuation advisements notify persons that conditions indicate a good probability that hazards associated with the incident will severely limit the ability to provide emergency services protection, and that dangerous conditions exist that may threaten the safety and property of the person's residence or business.
 - (a) This notice states that a person must be prepared to leave a moment's notice. Level II evacuation may be the only notice provided.
 - (b) Level II evacuations advisements may or may not be accompanied by checkpoints, roadblocks, or road closures.
 3. Level III advisement (Go): Level III evacuation advisements state that the current conditions present specific and immediate threat(s) to the life and safety of persons within the area and advise immediate evacuation. Level III advisements also include information that, if ignored, emergency services may not be available.
 - (a) Level III advisements often include the location of nearby temporary shelters.
 - (b) Level III advisements are often accompanied by checkpoints, roadblocks, road closures, 24 hour patrols by law enforcement officers and limit or restrict access to property in the established hazardous area.
- G. Communications with the Public
1. One of the most difficult components of the plan will be getting information to the public, either immediately before or in the immediate aftermath of an incident, on what they should do during the evacuation. Evacuation personnel should consider what information they need the public to understand, in advance of an evacuation. Without proper information, people may evacuate towards a hazard and put themselves in greater danger. Or they may evacuate unnecessarily and create additional congestion on evacuation routes. When multiple agencies/ jurisdictions are involved, public messaging will need to be coordinated and consideration given to establishing a JIS/JIC.

H. Traffic Management

1. The Incident Commander will determine the need for road closures and detours. Thurston County Sheriff's Office will initially coordinate and implement road closures and detours.
2. Continued staffing of traffic control points may be relinquished to Thurston County Public Works or other local/ state supporting agencies.

V. RESPONSIBILITIES

A. Primary Agency

1. The primary responsibility of the Sheriff, in any circumstance, is to protect peace and safety in the county. During evacuations the Thurston County Sheriff's office will restrict access to the dangerous area.
2. The incident commander will determine the need to change evacuation levels and re-entry.

B. Incident Command

1. IC will recommend changes to evacuation levels, provide recommendations to the Sheriff's Office for lowering evacuation levels, and will request activation of the appropriate evacuation level based on current and predicted hazard behavior.
2. Law enforcement will approve the request for evacuation based on the Incident Command's recommendation.

C. Supporting Agencies

1. Supporting agencies will work in collaboration with law enforcement and incident command.
2. Public Works will assess roads and assist law enforcement with traffic control points.
3. Emergency Management will issue notifications and warnings in coordination with ESF 2 and ESF 15.
4. EM/ECC coordination with ESF 2, 6 & 15 to support evacuations.
5. Human and pet shelters, feeding, and reunification centers will be coordinated through ESF 6.
6. Livestock evacuations will be coordinated through ESF 11.

VI. RESOURCE REQUIREMENTS

- A. Evacuations may require transportation vehicles and operators, a place to take evacuees (safe area, shelter), food and other accommodations, critical incident stress management and other human services, medical assistance, interpreters, pet/livestock support services, access and functional needs shelters.

VII. PLAN REVIEW AND MAINTENANCE

- A. This plan will be reviewed and updated in conjunction with the CEMP ESF 13 Annex (Public Safety and Security). An after-action review will be conducted after any incidents or exercises implementing or validating portions of this plan.
